FARA Short Form_Ira Shapiro Global Strategies, LLC

Question 11:

From 2003 until Feb. 1, 2004, I practiced international trade law in the Washington, DC, office of Greenberg Traurig, LLP (GT). GT has for many years represented Sagarpa/Conapesca, the Mexican Department of Agriculture and Fisheries. At GT, I was listed as one of the attorneys working for Sagarpa/Conapesca on the firm's FARA registration. My principal work for Sagarpa/Conapesca was actually legal work on the long WTO dispute between Mexico and the United States concerning the U.S. "dolphin-safe" measures, which began in 2009. But I was also involved in some meetings on Capitol Hill explaining the dispute, and intermittent other Sagarpa issues, which made my inclusion in GT's FARA registration appropriate.

On February 1, 2014, I left GT and started my own company, Ira Shapiro Global Strategies, LLC. Since I was no longer at the firm, GT terminated my FARA registration in the first quarter of 2014. We subsequently reached an agreement by which I would continue to stay involved in the legal aspects of the WTO dispute. It was unclear whether I would be involved in policy work related to the dispute, so I did not file a FARA registration for my new firm. Earlier this year, I reached a new agreement with GT to stay involved in the WTO dispute, including policy work, so I am now submitting a FARA registration for my company.

My current work is on the WTO case that Mexico brought against the U.S. concerning its "dolphin-safe" policy work and measures, and in support of Mexico's position in that dispute.
